

Captivate Gamers with Gaming Experiences that Break Barriers and Build Bridges Across Platforms and Regions

The video game industry has a steep global growth trajectory. In fact, video gaming revenue has easily outpaced the combined revenues of the global movie and music industries. Global gamers are discerning consumers who expect flawless, immersive experiences. Delivering that experience to distinct markets and players requires an exceptional focus on both globalization and quality assurance—from narrative design to localization, audio, gameplay testing, and functional QA.

Gamers for Gamers Approach

Lionbridge Gaming offers a full suite of global publishing services for mobile, console, and PC games. Our team members—narrative designers, linguists, QA and localization testers, engineers, and project and community managers—are passionate gamers as well as domain experts. We understand the challenges and rewards of delivering games and services to global audiences.

We help developers, publishers, and platform holders of all sizes—from Good Shepherd to Bandai—complete thousands of projects on time and on budget.

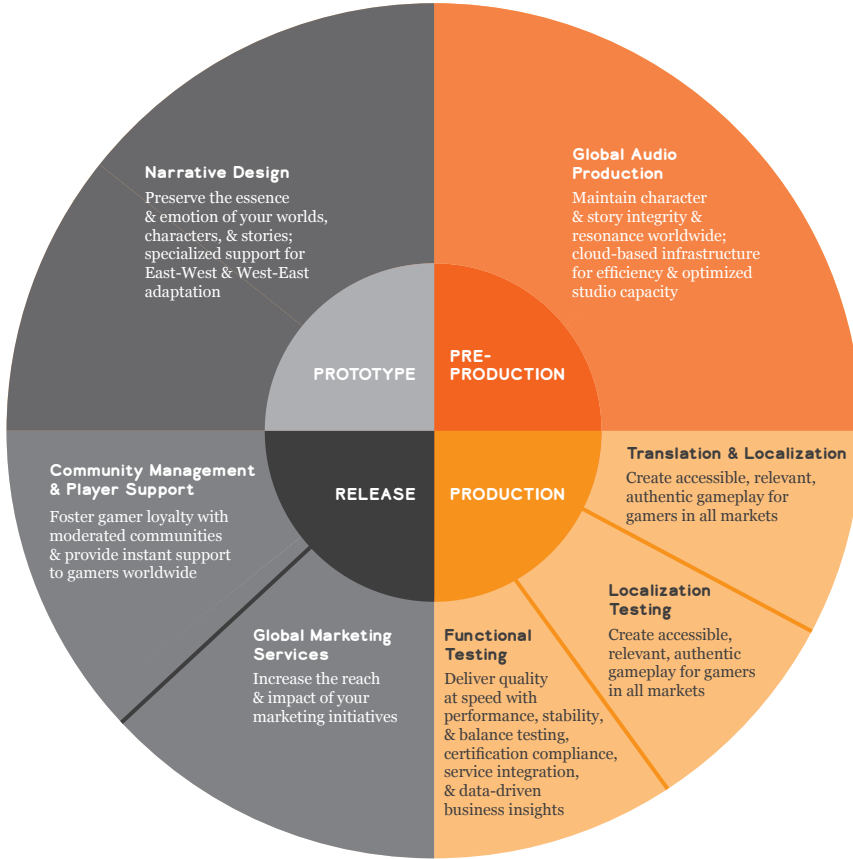

Our global experts bring every aspect of your game—from the cultural influences that drive storytelling to the details that affect functionality—to every audience, without compromise. With Lionbridge Gaming as your partner, you can confidently focus on your core competencies, knowing the world leader in global details has your back.

Lionbridge Game Services

With Lionbridge as your end-to-end partner, you can deliver the gaming experience you envisioned, without compromise, to global audiences.

We work with developers, publishers, platform holders, and engine providers at all points of the game development cycle, and our comprehensive expertise offers network effects that enhance the quality our customers enjoy.

Outperform and Expand Reach

Distinguish your game with globalization and testing services that deliver emotional engagement and uncompromised performance for all audiences.
